

The notions of trivial extensions of rings and of abelian categories has been extensively studied and used in various areas of research. In this talk we give a short overview of these notions. We end the presentation with some perspectives.