UNIVERSIDAD DE GRANADA

Máster Universitario en
Economía / Economics

Mobility

Presentation

The Master in Economics offers students the opportunity to broaden their academic and professional horizons through a wide range of international mobility options and double degree programmes. These pathways are the result of solid agreements between the University of Granada and prestigious partner institutions, ensuring academic recognition, cultural exchange, and valuable international experience.

Students can choose from Erasmus+, ARQUS, and other international mobility programmes, as well as pursue double degrees with institutions such as SRH Berlin University of Applied Sciences and INSEEC Business School. All relevant procedures, destinations, and requirements are carefully detailed to guide students through every step of the process, ensuring transparency and smooth integration of mobility into the programme.

Incoming mobility students are also provided with specific support through a structured welcome process, designed to facilitate their integration into both the University of Granada and the Master in Economics. Information on reception activities, guidance, and administrative procedures can be found at Welcome Procedure for Incoming Mobility Students.

A. International Double Master's Degree with SRH Berlin University of Applied Sciences (Germany)

Description

The Master's Degree in Economics has established an agreement with SRH Berlin University of Applied Sciences (Germany), offering its students a unique opportunity to complete part of their studies at this institution. Upon completion, students will obtain both an official Master's Degree in Economics from the University of Granada (UGR) and an official Master of Arts in International Management from SRH Berlin University of Applied Sciences.

The nominal length of study is two years (four semesters). Selected students from UGR will complete their first academic year at UGR (MEIM) and their second academic year at SRH Berlin University of Applied Sciences. Selected students from SRH will study two trimesters at UGR.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

The Double Degree in Economics and International Management is a full-time program of 120 ECTS credits, conducted entirely in English at both institutions.

Student admission

Students from UGR will be nominated between January and April, prior to the start of their first year at SRH. The Double Master's program is highly competitive and offers only 10 places (5 from UGR and 5 from SRH).

Requirements

1. Enrollment in the Master in Economics.
2. Up-to-date payment of tuition fees and public university charges by the application deadline. If paying in installments, at least one installment must be completed.
3. Selection is based on academic performance, English proficiency, and knowledge of the local language.
4. Language requirements: B2 in English (mandatory). B1 in German (recommended).
5. Students must take the specific courses listed in the programme structure for UGR students section below

Note: Students selected to participate in the mobility program must officially withdraw from the Master's Thesis (TFM) in the academic year they spend at UGR and register for it in the academic year they will be studying in Germany. Please refer to the Enrollment and Pre-enrollment section for more information.

Official call for applications

The call for applications will be published around November–December of the current academic year.

Information regarding funding, eligibility requirements, application procedures—including required documents and submission details—selection criteria, and other relevant aspects will be outlined in the Call. For reference, students may consult the Calls from previous academic years to gain insight into the usual structure and requirements.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

Previous calls

- SRH Official call - Academic year 2025/2026
- SRH Official call - Academic year 2024/2025

Programme structure for UGR students

Year 1: Three terms at UGR (52 ECTS)

Among the courses offered by the Master in Economics, students may freely choose subjects to complete the required 52 ECTS credits. However, for those interested in pursuing the Master's degree at SRH Berlin, the following courses are mandatory and must be successfully completed during the year at UGR:

COURSE AT UGR	ECTS	RECOGNISED COURSES	ECTS
Operations Management	4	Operations and Project Management	5
Economic Analysis Techniques	4	Developing Managerial Skills I: Case Studies	5
Research Methodology	4	Company Project III	5
Game Theory	4	Developing Managerial Skills II: Business Simulation	5
Technological lnnovation Management	4	Technological Foresight and Innovation Strategies	5
Strategic Management	4	Business Model Generation	5
Political Competition and Decision Making	4	Negotiation and Conflict Management	5
Leadership and Emotional lntelligence	4	-	4

Please note that the Master's Thesis (TFM) must not be included among these 52

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

ECTS credits. Students selected for the mobility program must not register for the TFM during their year at UGR. If already registered, they must modify their enrollment following the official procedure and within the established deadlines. The TFM must be registered and completed in the second year, while the student is at SRH.

Year 2: Two semesters at SRH (60 ECTS) + Master Thesis at UGR (8 ECTS)

Of the 60 ECTS credits to be completed at SRH, 20 ECTS credits correspond to the Master's Thesis and 5 ECTS credits to the Master's internship (6 weeks of length). The internship must be carried out outside of Spain.

To complete the remaining 35 ECTS credits, students must choose from the courses offered within the SRH Master's program, excluding those already recognized based on the courses completed at UGR (seee the table above). The full list of available SRH courses can be consulted at Programme at SRH

In addition, students must enroll in and complete the Master's Thesis (TFM) at the University of Granada (8 ECTS credits).

Programme structure for SRH students

Year 1: One semester at SRH (30 ECTS) + Two terms at UGR (40 ECTS)

During the two terms at UGR, students must choose 8 courses (32 ECTS) from the 10 listed in the table below, in addition to completing the Master's Thesis at UGR (8 ECTS):

COURSE	TERM	ECTS
Growth and Development Economics	3	4
Research Methods in Management	2	4
Operations Management	3	4
Evaluation of Public Policies and Programmes	3	4
Political Competition and Decision Making	2	4
Information Systems Management	3	4
International Economics	2	4

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

COURSE	TERM	ECTS
Industrial Economics and Banking	3	4
Experimental Economics	3	4
Behavioral Economics	3	4

Year 2: Two semesters at SRH or One semester at SRH + One semester at a partner university

Agreement

For further information, please consult the agreement between SRH and UGR on the Double Master's Programme

B. International Double Master’s Degree with INSEEC Business School (France)

Description

The Master’s Degree in Economics has established an agreement with the INSEEC Business School (France), offering its students a unique opportunity to complete part of their studies at this institution. Upon completion, students will obtain both an official Master’s Degree in Economics from the University of Granada (UGR) and an official Grade Master from INSEEC Business School.

The nominal length of study is two years (four semesters). Selected students from UGR will complete their first academic year at UGR (MEIM) and their second academic year at INSEEC Business School (in Paris, in Bordeaux or in Lyon, France).

The Double Degree in Economics and Grade Master is a full-time program of 120 ECTS credits, conducted entirely in English at both institutions.

Student admission

Students from UGR will be nominated between January and April, prior to the start of their first year at INSEEC. The Double Master’s program is highly competitive and offers only 6 places (2 for each campus: Paris, Bordeaux, and Lyon).

Requirements

1. Enrollment in the Master in Economics.
2. Up-to-date payment of tuition fees and public university charges by the application deadline. If paying in installments, at least one installment must be completed.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

3. Selection is based on academic performance, English proficiency, and knowledge of the local language.
4. Language requirements: B1 in English (mandatory). B1 in French (recommended).
5. Students must take the specific courses listed in the programme structure for UGR students section below

Note: Students selected to participate in the mobility program must officially withdraw from the Master's Thesis (TFM) in the academic year they spend at UGR and register for it in the academic year they will be studying in France. Please refer to the Enrollment and Pre-enrollment section for more information.

Official call for applications

The call for applications will be published around November–December of the current academic year.

Information regarding funding, eligibility requirements, application procedures—including required documents and submission details—selection criteria, and other relevant aspects will be outlined in the Call. For reference, students may consult the Calls from previous academic years to gain insight into the usual structure and requirements.

Previous calls

- INSEEC Official call - Academic year 2024/2025

Programme structure for UGR students

Year 1: Three terms at UGR (52 ECTS)

Among the courses offered by the Master in Economics, students may freely choose subjects to complete the required 52 ECTS credits. For those interested in pursuing the Master’s degree at INSEEC, there are no specific mandatory courses that must be completed during the year at UGR.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

Please note that the Master's Thesis (TFM) must not be included among these 52 ECTS credits. Students selected for the mobility program must not register for the TFM during their year at UGR. If already registered, they must modify theirenrollment following the official procedure and within the established deadlines. TheTFM must be registered and completed in the second year, while the student is atINSEEC.

Agreement

The agreement between INSEEC Business School and the University of Granada is currently in the process of renewal.

Application Procedures for Double Masters

Applications must be submitted through the Electronic Office of the University of Granada: Application for a place in international double degree of official master's programs, following the procedures established in the Call and within the deadlines specified therein.

Tuition Fees and Student Financial Responsibility for Double Masters

All students admitted to the double degree programme will be subject to the following fee arrangements:

1. Students will pay tuition fees only at their home university.
2. Students will be responsible for financing and organising the following:

    a. Travel to and from the institutions they attend during the programme.

    b. Books, stationery, and other study materials.

    c. Visas and related administrative costs.

    d. Accommodation and living expenses.

    e. Student Association / General Services charges, where applicable.

    f. Health and travel insurance for the duration of the study period at the host institution. Neither the host nor the home university will be liable for travel, living, healthcare, insurance, or other expenses incurred by the students.

    g. Payment of the legally established fees for the issuance of the degree certificate.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

Notwithstanding the above, the partner universities will seek to obtain funding to support the mobility periods, particularly through the Erasmus programme. Typically, Erasmus grants cover up to 9 months. Further information about available funding options will be provided in the Call for Applications.

UGR students will be required to pay, during the second year, the tuition fees corresponding to the Master's Thesis (TFM) at the University of Granada.

Awarding of Degrees for Double Masters

Upon successful completion of the agreed two-year postgraduate programme of study, and the acquisition of 120 ECTS credits, participating students will be entitled to receive the degree from their home institution, followed by the degree from the host institution, as outlined below:

- SRH Berlin University of Applied Sciences: Master of Arts in International Management / IBS Business School: Grade Master
- University of Granada (UGR): Máster Universitario en Economía (Master in Economics)

Provided that students have successfully fulfilled the programme requirements, each institution or relevant authority will issue not only the respective diplomas, but also a European Diploma Supplement certifying the degree and academic results obtained, in accordance with the regulations of each institution.

The degree delivered by SRH will be a Master of Arts in International Management, the degree delivered by IBS Business School will be a Grade Master and the degree delivered by UGR will be Master in Economía /Economics.

Under no circumstances will the cooperating university award the degree without the student having first obtained their degree from the university of origin vía which they gained access to the programme.

Other Mobility Programmes

The University of Granada has specific regulations governing international student mobility. You can consult them at the following link: Regulations governing international student mobility at the University of Granada

Apart from Erasmus + within Europa, students from partner universities abroad may also come to the University of Granada to take part in the Master in Economics through different mobility schemes. These include Erasmus+ with non-associated third countries (KA171 / International Credit Mobility), the Free Mobility Programme,

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

European university alliances such as Arqus, the Swiss–European Mobility Programme, bilateral exchange agreements applicable to Master's studies, and international double degree pathways.

For Erasmus+ with non-associated third countries (KA171 / International Credit Mobility) (intldimension@ugr.es) and Free Mobility Programme (incoming@ugr.es), incoming students are required to obtain a pre-admission letter from the Master's coordinator, specifying the courses they wish to follow. This procedure, established by the University of Granada's Central International Relations Office, is mandatory in order to proceed with the mobility application. The coordinator may also request supporting documents to assess the student's suitability.

The official nomination, however, is always made by the student's home university through the Central International Relations Office, which is also responsible for the administrative validation of the mobility. Once nominated, the International Postgraduate School (EIP) takes care of the enrolment of the incoming student and the validation of the learning agreement.

For further information about these mobility programmes, students should contact the International Postgraduate School directly. Please note that the Master's coordination is not responsible for managing these programmes, except for signing pre-admission letters in the specific cases outlined above.

To consult these agreements and others, please visit the section International Mobility and Agreements – University of Granada.

Erasmus+ Blended Intensive Programme (BIP)

Previous calls

Resolution of the Coordinator of the Master's Degree in Economics of the University of Granada announcing the provisional lists.

Resolution of the Coordinator of the Master's in Economics of the University of Granada announcing the final lists.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

The Master's Degree in Economics and the Master's in Economics and Business Organization at the University of Granada open a competitive call for up to 8 places to participate in the Erasmus+ Blended Intensive Programme (BIP) Exploring Firms Sustainability Practices across the EU: Challenges and Solutions.

For detailed information, please see the Call for Applications: Blended Intensive Programme (BIP) – "Exploring Firms Sustainability Practices across the EU: Challenges and Solutions"

Programme Objectives

The BIP aims to strengthen students' skills in:

- Understanding firms' sustainability performance.
- Comparing sustainable business practices to identify best practices.
- Applying tools for environmental diagnostics.

Students will work in virtual sessions to analyse companies' sustainability strategies and prepare a written sustainability report. During the on-site week in Prague, they will present their comparative case studies, visit a company, and develop improvement proposals in international teams.

Participating Universities

- Prague University of Economics and Business (Czech Republic)
- Université de Lille (France)
- Windesheim University of Applied Sciences (Netherlands)
- University of Granada (Spain)

Key Dates

- Application period: 3–9 December 2025
- Provisional resolution: 15 December 2025
- Appeals period: until 7 January 2026
- Final resolution: 13 January 2026
- Virtual sessions: 12 February 2026 and 5 March 2026

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

- On-site week in Prague: 13–17 April 2026
- Academic recognition: 3 ECTS

Eligibility Requirements

Applicants must:

- Be enrolled in the Master's in Economics or Economics and Business Organization at UGR.
- Be up to date with tuition fee payments.
- Provide accredited proof of B2-level English proficiency (see official language recognition procedure: http://sl.ugr.es/0b4h).
- Maintain enrollment at UGR until completion of the activity.

Application Procedure

Applications must be submitted through the UGR Electronic Office (sl.ugr.es/0bDP) together with:

- English certificate (minimum B2).
- Additional supporting documents, if applicable.

Selection Criteria

- Admission grade to the Master's programme (DUA).
- Certified English proficiency above B2 (C1: +1 point; C2: +2 points).

All resolutions will be published on the official pages of both master's programmes.

For enquiries, please contact: gallegoburin@ugr.es

Mobility Coordinator

The mobility coordinator, Professor Marta Riquelme-Medina, is responsible for managing the international mobility programmes and double degree pathways of the Master in Economics. She is an Associate Professor in the Department of Management at the University of Granada. Professor Rojo has extensive experience in academic coordination and currently also serves as mobility coordinator at the Faculty of Economics and Business, which provides her with a comprehensive institutional perspective and the expertise needed to ensure smooth and efficient management of all mobility processes.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

She supervises a significant number of incoming and outgoing students each year, guiding them throughout the mobility process and ensuring that academic requirements and recognition of credits are properly met. Her role is formally recognized with a teaching load reduction of 0.1 ECTS per student tutored, which ensures the time and dedication necessary for high-quality supervision and follow-up.

The mobility coordinator plays a key role in the coordination, supervision, and follow-up of mobility activities. Her main responsibilities include:

- Preparation and allocation: At the beginning of the academic year, the coordinator liaises with partner universities to confirm mobility agreements and opportunities, organizes information sessions with students, and oversees the allocation of placements.
- Administrative supervision: Once the mobility is assigned, she manages the required documentation, ensures that learning agreements are properly completed, and coordinates with both the University of Granada and the host institutions for the recognition of credits.
- Ongoing support: Throughout the mobility period, the coordinator maintains communication with both students and partner universities, addressing any academic or administrative issues that may arise and ensuring that students' needs are adequately met.
- Final evaluation: At the end of the mobility, she verifies that the recognition process is correctly completed and presents the results to the Master's Academic Committee, ensuring academic coherence and compliance with institutional standards.

All the procedures and requirements related to mobility are thoroughly detailed on the Master's website, where students can find step-by-step guidance on available destinations, application procedures, learning agreements, recognition rules, and deadlines. This space serves as an essential resource for students, ensuring transparency, consistency, and the proper integration of mobility into the programme

Contact for Mobility

Master's Mobility Coordinator:

Marta Riquelme-Medina, Profesora Permanente Laboral

Office A202

@email

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada

Before reaching out, please carefully review the information available on this website, where you will find answers to most common questions regarding the mobility. The use of contact channels should be reserved for highly specific or personal inquiries that cannot be resolved through the information provided online. This will help avoid overloading the communication channels and ensure timely responses.

Copyright© 2026 Universidad de Granada